BANKERS BEFORE BOARD

TAX COMMISSIONERS HEAR APPEALS FROM COUNTY FINDING.

Dr. James Carter Asks the Board to Assess Banks on Full Value of Their Stock.

The Indianapolis banks were represented before the Board of Tax Commissioners yesterday morning. The board heard the appeals from the banks before noon. In the afternoon the board was in executive session.

The appeal of Dr. James Carter from the assessment of the banks by the County Board of Review was heard by the board yesterday morning. Last year Dr. Carter took the case to the Tax Board on appeal from the County Board of Review, and the assessment was raised from 70 to 75 per cent. of the face value of the banks' capital stock, plus the surplus and undivided profits. The board this year has taken off the extra 5 per cent. Dr. Carter in his statement given yesterday before the board asked that body to assess the banks to the full value of their stock.

The appraisal of the various banks by the County Board of Review on stock, surplus and profits was fixed as follows: Fletcher National, $1,855,236; Columbia National, $1,313,250; Merchants' National, $1,389,292; Capital National, $440,000; Union National, $290,000; Indiana National, $1,217,000; Indiana National, $1,428,538. The Marion County Board of Review decided to assess these banks at 70 per cent. of these returns.

John Perrin, president of the American National Bank, before the board part of the forenoon. He was closely questioned as to the business of the bank. He declared that it was not a business of the bank to maintain which prevent them from using all of their money. The board then took the case under advisement.

RAWLS MEETS SHARPE.

Finals in Riverside Golf Tournament Set for To-Day.

The finals in the open golf tournament will be played to-day at Riverside. It will be a thirty-six hole course. Robert M. Rawls will play Percy Sharpe. The game will begin at 9 o'clock this morning. Eighteen holes will be played before lunch. Play will be resumed at 2:30 o'clock and the remaining eighteen holes will be played. In the person of Percy Sharpe Rawls has a good opponent. Sharpe has been one of the most consistent players on the local links and has met and defeated a number of good players. Through the semi-finals he has shown much ability. It is the first time that these two players have met on the links and both have a great many admirers.

GIVEN THE DEAD HAND

ELKS MAKE THINGS PLEASANT FOR JOSEPH T. FANNING.

Reception in Clubhouse Bubbled Over with Good Will and Praise for "Joe."

SENATOR FAIRBANKS SPOKE

CHARACTER OF THE ORDER COMPLIMENTED BY HIM.

John W. Kern Welcomed the New Grand Exalted Ruler—Elks' Gift to Fanning.

An enthusiastic reception in honor of Joseph T. Fanning, to congratulate him on his election to the high office of grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. Elks, was tendered by the Indianapolis Lodge, No. 13, B. P. O. Elks, at the Elks' clubhouse last night. It was a well-attended audience that listened to eloquent addresses of welcome by men who are highly esteemed in the city, State and Nation.

Joseph E. Bell, exalted ruler of the local lodge of Elks, presided, and in introducing Mayor Bookwalter he said that the local lodge took especial pride in the unanimous election of Mr. Fanning to the highest position in the power of the Elks to bestow. He said the popular notion that the Elks were organized merely for the amusement is wrong, and that no order does more charity without ostentation than the order of Elks, and that many rays of sunshine are cast into darkened homes by members of the order.

Mayor Bookwalter welcomed Mr. Fanning in behalf of the city of Indianapolis. He said: "It occurs to me that this gathering has a two-fold purpose. We are here to welcome back to his old home a man who has the distinguished honor of being elected grand exalted ruler of one of the greatest orders in America and to welcome him on account of the honor reflected on our city and State by the high office conferred upon a fellow citizen. I had the pleasure to be in Baltimore at that time. There were Elks there of all degrees, and some Indianapolis Elks taking degrees I will not mention. Mr. Fanning deserves the honor that has come to him because of the high service he rendered to the order in years gone by. The highest principles of the order have been represented by him. The honor conferred upon him is to be shared by all the people of the city, and we feel that we are all entitled to a full share."

WELCOMED BY KERN.
Following the remarks of the mayor, Nevins' "Rosary" was sung by Mrs. Lydia Carman Leathers in a most artistic and pleasing manner. John W. Kern was then introduced by Mr. Bell. Mr. Kern welcomed Mr. Fanning in behalf of the local lodge of Elks. He said that this was the second time the honor of furnishing the grand exalted ruler had come to Indianapolis. The first time, when Elksdom was in its infancy, William E. English was elected. He spoke of the greatness of the order and its many acts of charity with an open and unsparring hand. He said that the honor conferred upon Mr. Fanning was as great as to be elected Governor of a State or a ruler of a province. Continuing, Mr. Kern said: "Joseph T. Fanning is a man of whom I recall was Joseph the son of Jacob. There have been a number of other Josephs of distinction down to old Joe and Joe-Joe, but we deliberately turn our backs on all the others and welcome our own Grand Exalted Ruler, Joseph. However," said Mr. Kern, "I don't like the idea of him walking alone at the head of the herd; how infinitely better it would be if he should select an Elk of another sex to walk with him. I think he owes it to the dignity of the order to have a woman's thrust upon him, but this honor has come because he has been an earnest, faithful worker, and in him largely due to the Elks' home in the mountains of Virginia."

SENATOR FAIRBANKS SPOKE.
Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, although not a member of the order, wished to be considered a friend and said that he had come to join in extending felicitations to a distinguished member of the order. "To be chosen to the headship of this order is indeed an honor and I am glad to be considered a friend of this order, which stands for charity, justice, brotherly love and the highest of the high mark of approval of the high standing of the Indianapolis lodge. No honor has come to me now or will come to me in the future as large as the assurance of your confidence and trust."

Mr. Fanning responded, expressing boundless gratitude for the honor and welcome bestowed upon him. "The high honor conferred upon me," said he, "was not as an individual. It was the mark of approval of the high standing of the Indianapolis lodge. No honor has come to me now or will come to me in the future as large as the assurance of your confidence and trust."

REGULAR SERVICE TO-DAY.

Cars Will Begin Running Over the Indianapolis & Eastern Line.

President Winters, of the Dayton & Western Traction Company, yesterday notified Manager J. W. Chipman, of the Indianapolis & Eastern Railway Company, that regular service over the route to Richmond and Dayton will begin to-day. The fare from Dayton to Richmond will be $1.00, and from Richmond to Dayton $1.00. It will require about five hours to make the trip, as transfers will have to be made at Dublin and Richmond.

An obstruction at Dayton caused a delay in the journey of the Eastern officials who started from this city Thursday morning on a special train to make a trip over the interurban lines of Ohio and visit the principal cities. As the car was entering Dayton on sharp curve it struck the side of a bridge, and as it is much larger than any of the Ohio cars, caused a delay of about an hour.

DEATH DUE TO HEART FAILURE.

Coroner Finds Mrs. John Tingle Did Not Die from Violence.

The body of Mrs. John Tingle, wife of John Tingle, of Sheldon and Nineteenth streets, was exhumed yesterday afternoon at the order of Coroner Tuttle and Deputy Coroner Gies in order that an investigation be had as to the cause of the woman's death. Mrs. Tingle was buried last Wednesday in the Anderson Cemetery and rumors reached the ears of the coroner to the effect that the woman had died from the effects of a kick in the stomach administered by her husband. On examination it was found that the woman's death was due to heart failure and not to violence.

John Tingle, the husband, who was held at the police station pending the investigation, was released as soon as the coroner's finding was announced.

ILL HEALTH THE CAUSE.

Mrs. Mary A. Bowlin Tired of Life and Drank Carbolic Acid.

Dependent on account of ill health, Mrs. Mary A. Bowlin, wife of James Bowlin, a leader in socialistic circles, committed suicide at her home, 1523 Sheldon street, early yesterday morning. She was found lying on the floor in a rear room by a five-year-old child. Her plans to take her life were not known until she was found with an empty bottle, from which the odor of carbolic acid issued. She was twenty-six years old and had been married six years. A husband and one child survive.

GRISWOLD OUT ON BAIL

WINEROOM KEEPER RELEASED FROM WORKHOUSE ON BOND.

A. S. Griswold, the saloon keeper at 146 South Illinois street, who was several days ago fined $30 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse by Judge Whallon, of the Police Court, was released from that institution yesterday morning on a $1,000 bond, pending his appeal to the Criminal Court.

Griswold, it is said, conducted one of the foulest resorts in the city with winerooms, where he sold liquor to girls of tender years, and even offered inducements to them to bring trade to his saloon. His arrest was brought about by the arrest of three young girls in one of his winerooms, and their sentence later to the Woman's Reformatory.

While there has been no license for the saloon operated by the violator of the law since July 31, his place never was known to be closed, and it is believed that the State authorities will prosecute him for selling liquor without a license as soon as he has served the time given him in the Police Court. The authorities are criticised for permitting the release of the divergent workhouse.

Many people could not understand why Griswold's release was permitted. Judge Whallon explained the matter by saying that to the Criminal Court the prisoner had the right to demand his release on bond. When proper security was furnished the release was allowed.

SOCIALISTS FIGHT HARD

THEY STIR UP TROUBLE IN GARMENT WORKERS' CONVENTION.

Organization Puts Its Foot Down on Proposition to Inject Politics Into Labor Matters—Resolutions.

Another effort was made yesterday by the socialist delegates of the convention of United Garment Workers of America to reverse the policy of the organization in regard to politics. A resolution was proposed a few minutes after the convention got down to business to strike out that section of the constitution which bars the introduction of political issues in the organization and thereby open a way for the support of the United Garment Workers towards the Socialist party. The question was put to a vote and defeated by a large majority. The Socialists took their decisive defeat good-naturedly and said they would always abide by the majority vote of the convention. A greater part of the morning was taken up with a discussion of politics, and aside from that only few committee were able to report before the noon adjournment. A resolution which recommended the Socialists more or less was introduced by Henry White and adopted. It urged upon the members of the convention the importance of studying the political questions affecting their interests with a view of securing the best possible results for the advancement of their cause.

The action taken yesterday in regard to the political issue means that the United Garment Workers have taken their stand with Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation of Labor, who is opposed to the introduction of politics into the labor movement. The resolution was adopted by a large majority. The socialist delegates are from New York, and it is said that at the next convention of the United Garment Workers, the Socialist party will be held in Boston. The Socialist party of the garment workers will attempt to commit the body to their party.

NO UNIVERSAL LABEL.

In the afternoon the report of the officers was read and their recommendations of all the resolutions under one exception—that of adopting a universal label. As it is, at present each branch of the organization has a separate label. It was stated that the label of each branch, the tailors, the cutters and the overall makers, represented the general body and in case a universal label was adopted there would be no means of distinguishing the three branches of the trade.

The recommendation of the president and the secretary, providing the placing of a national label on the garments, was adopted. The establishment of an office in Chicago which should be under the jurisdiction of the president was also adopted. The resolution also provided for the placing of a permanent official in the office at Chicago and that he should be appointed by the executive board.

Another resolution adopted was one providing that the United Garment Workers of America should be published weekly. An important resolution of the secretary's report referred to the addition of the Special Order Clothing Makers to the ranks of the United Garment Workers. It was decided that the continued jurisdiction of that body. The report suggested that the greatest care must be taken in the selection of the special order trade and it was recommended that the representative in the Western office should be a person who could make such recommendations to the G. E. B. as he finds necessary.

OTHER RESOLUTIONS.

The report advised that the arbitrary action of the journeymen tailors in using their influence in central bodies to boycott and place on the unfair list firms using the garment workers' label should be brought to the attention of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor. The recommendation of the secretary on the establishment of a uniform system of work in the tailoring branch of the trade was also adopted.

The resolution to hold biennial conventions was defeated. It was stated that present conditions make it necessary to hold the convention annually. The most important resolution of the day adopted was relative to the benefit fund. It was decided that a death benefit fund be established and that it be placed on a national and not a local basis. The executive board was instructed to investigate the plans of other organizations which have a death benefit system and recommend the most feasible plan at the next convention.

Although to-day will be a very busy day for the convention, the delegates who attended the meeting to-day will be very busy. It was hoped to finish up and adjourn to-night. The election of officers will occur at the final session. If there is any opposition to the present board it has not as yet formed into a definite party, and the general opinion is that the present officers will be re-elected. Miss Lillian Fredericks, president of the local union of this city, was presented with a diamond ring at the afternoon session yesterday. The gift was from the tailoring branch of the organization. Miss Fredericks is the most prominent and popular woman worker of the United Garment Workers' convention.

REALY MEN AROUSED

THEY PLAN A VIGOROUS FIGHT BEFORE STATE TAX BOARD.

Report that Horizontal Increase of Marion County Assessments in Contemplated Discussed.

TAX IS TOO HIGH AT PRESENT

BROKERS SAY THE COUNTY PAYS MORE THAN ITS SHARE NOW.

They Are Prepared to Make an Organized Protest Before the Tax Commissioners.

Representative Indianapolis real-estate brokers say there will be organized an influential opposition to the State Board of Tax Commissioners making a horizontal increase in the real-estate assessment of Marion county. Several reports have been in circulation this week to the effect that the State Board of Tax Commissioners intended to make a horizontal raise of the Marion county assessment.

The assessment of Marion county real estate is out of proportion now to the assessments of the adjoining counties or any other counties in the State, according to some of the most prominent real-estate men of the city, and it is declared this county is paying much more than its proportionate share of taxes.

The following figures show the assessment of Marion county for the year last year in comparison with the assessment of the adjoining counties:

Counties.	1929.	1930.
Marion	$106,825,455	$141,812,430
Hamilton	17,940,540	18,215,450
Boone	17,940,540	18,215,450
Adelphi	17,940,540	18,215,450
Shelby	18,910,450	19,341,860
Hancock	14,455,710	15,474,380
Franklin	12,738,810	12,970,240
Morgan	10,852,930	10,123,450

While Marion county's assessment is increased a little more than $35,000,000 over last year's assessment, one of the most prominent real-estate men of the city declared that the assessment of Marion county is increased much more than $35,000,000, and in most of them the increase ranges between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. The auditor of Marion county has not yet reported to the State Tax Board the assessment of Marion county, and this part of the figures on Marion county is estimated. It is thought, however, that the actual assessment will not be far away from the estimate now in the hands of the State Tax Commissioners.

"It will be a great injustice on Marion county if the State Tax Board puts a large increase on the real-estate assessment of our county," said Albert Metzger. "We are already paying more than our share of taxes and we are assessed disproportionately high in comparison with the counties adjoining us. If the State Tax Commissioners put a horizontal increase on the county, as is reported, I am sure there will be an organized effort to have the board change its action. The increase over last year's assessment of Marion county is very large. There is no ground for Marion county real estate being assessed so much higher proportionately than the assessments of the adjoining counties."

"There is a good deal of property in Marion county now—and good property, too—that cannot be sold at the appraised value. If the State Tax Board put a horizontal increase on the county, it will be a positive injustice. I do not hear of the report that such is the contemplated action of the State Tax Commissioners. I, for one, am opposed to it. It is a horizontal increase. Real-estate business is dull enough now and there is small enough profit in it at present of taxes. The percentage of profit on real-estate investments is very small, but if the assessment is increased by a horizontal increase, the profit will be still smaller. I don't think there is any just ground on which such an increase can be made."

"I am certainly opposed to an increase in Marion county's real-estate assessment," said M. H. Bowlin. "I will help to organize a movement to oppose an increase before the State Tax Board. This county is paying more than its share of taxes now, and if another increase is heaped upon us, the State Tax Board will be doing a great injustice to the county."

Governor Durbin and others of the State Tax Board said yesterday afternoon that they did not intend to suggest that the report that a horizontal raise on Marion county was adopted by the board. "We have not received the complete report of the county auditor as yet. Consequently it is absurd to suggest that a decision has been made in regard to the assessment and it is equally absurd for the board to become alarmed at what the board may do."

THREE SCORE AND FIVE

COL. JOHN WILLIAM RAY CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY TO-DAY.

He Is Still Active in Business After an Energetic and Successful Career—Life Sketch.

Colonel John William Ray, one of the prominent and influential men of the city and the State, was born in Madison, Ind., Aug. 15, 1832, and to-day he celebrates his seventy-fifth birthday at his home in Woodruff Place. In spite of his years, Colonel Ray is a hale and vigorous man, and is as enthusiastic and earnest in all his undertakings as in his earlier days. Mr. Ray received most of his education in the Jefferson county schools, and in 1848 he entered Asbury University, now De Pauw University, in Greencastle, from which institution he was graduated in 1848. The year following he began the study of law under the late Richard Rousseau, of Bloomfield. In 1851 Mr. Ray was married to Miss Catherine Phipps, daughter of Isaac N. Phipps, of Bloomfield, who died in 1855, and later he married Miss Elizabeth L. McDonald, daughter of the late Judge McDonald, of the United States Court. Col. Ray has four daughters, all of whom are residents of this city—Mrs. Edward B. Porter, Mrs. H. C. Newcomb and Miss Lucia and Miss Elizabeth Ray.

In 1850 Mr. Ray was a presidential elector and cast the vote of his district for Abraham Lincoln. He was colonel of the Forty-ninth Indiana from October, 1861, to 1862, and after the war was the pension agent for the Indianapolis district for a year. In 1867 he was appointed registrar of the county, which office he held for a number of years. In 1871 he aided in organizing the Indianapolis Savings bank, of which he was elected secretary and treasurer. Later he was first vice president of the bank. The report advised that the arbitrary action of the journeymen tailors in using their influence in central bodies to boycott and place on the unfair list firms using the garment workers' label should be brought to the attention of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor. The recommendation of the secretary on the establishment of a uniform system of work in the tailoring branch of the trade was also adopted.

AN ARDENT REPUBLICAN.

Probably no man in Indianapolis has a wider circle of warm friends through the State than Colonel Ray. His cordiality and good humor have won him adherents wherever he has gone and he has been in politics and in other fields has brought him in touch with a great number of people. Colonel Ray is a hard worker, with a quickness of wit and keenness of argument, combined with his magnificent voice, have made him a valuable addition to the working force of his party. In respect of the latter qualification this story of a recent happening is told: A friend of Colonel Ray called him up over the telephone, but the colonel's big voice was too much for the wire, and it was impossible to understand him. Finally the questioner said: "Look here, Colonel Ray, you hang up the receiver and just ask me any question you wish to without any telephone."

Colonel Ray was a member of the famous Lincoln Club of this city, which went to Mentor, O., to see James A. Garfield, and was the first organization to visit the president's caudich after his nomination. Thirteen hundred men were in the delegation, and Colonel Ray was elected speaker and gave the oration of the day.

Colonel Ray is one of the devoted members of Roberts Park Church, and is an enthusiastic worker in the Sunday-school. For many years he was the superintendent of the Sunday-school, and only ill health caused him to give up his position. He has a class for Bible study at the church Sunday mornings, and it is one of his warmest interests. It is told of him that years ago when his church was trying to raise a certain sum to liquidate a debt, Colonel Ray, who had already given $50, walked to the front of the church and gave his watch, because he had nothing else left to give. A short time afterward the Sunday-school raised the sum of $100 to re-purchase the watch and presented it to Colonel Ray. He has always been devotedly attached to his alma mater as well, and takes an active interest in university affairs. He was for many years treasurer of the university, until ill health forced him to relieve himself of some of his responsibilities.

Colonel Ray's anniversary will be marked by a dinner for the members of the family this evening at the Ray home. During the afternoon Colonel Ray will call on his friends informally at his home, 57 East Drive, Woodruff Place.

BAND'S FINAL CONCERT

FAIR BANK MANAGEMENT WILL CLOSE SEASON TO-NIGHT.

The Park Will Be Open and Admission Will Be Free the Rest of the Summer.

The excellent Ostendorf Concert Band will close its engagement at Fair Bank to-night's programme. This announcement will come as a surprise to many of the amusement seekers and music lovers of the city, and doubtless there will be many expressions of regret over the decision of the management of the beautiful park to discontinue these enjoyable summer evening entertainments.

The original intention was to have the band remain until the end of August, but the fall in the temperature has affected the attendance to such an extent that the management concluded it would be a great risk to continue the concerts for another fortnight. The expense of keeping together a company of such efficient musicians has been great, and the recent audiences at the park have not warranted the continuance of the band concert.

A splendid farewell programme will be rendered this evening, and Indianapolis will, upon this occasion, witness their last opportunity of enjoying a concert by one of the best bands ever brought to this city. The programme will be a most interesting one, and will include a number of the best local talent, will give nightly concerts at Fair Bank, and the admission to the park will be free. The Ostendorf, the organizer and manager of the band that has been such an artistic success during the last eight weeks, has about decided to take the thirty-six instrumentalists on a tour of Indiana next summer.
